

President To Address Nation Sunday Night

RESIGNATION OF CPA CHIEF IS ACCEPTED

Functions of Bureau, Along With Others, To Be Transferred To Overall Agency

EFFECTIVE AT ONCE

Washington, Dec. 5.—(P)—John D. Small, Civilian Production Administrator, has resigned.

The White House said today that President Truman has accepted Small's resignation, effective at the close of business tomorrow, December 6.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told newsmen today Small has been trying to resign for some time.

Since remaining CPA functions, along with those of CPA and other emergency agencies are to be transferred to an overall liquidation agency, Ross said the president conceded in Small's request to return to private industry.

The Small resignation follows by a day that of Wilson Wyatt as housing administrator. There had been differences between the two over priorities for building materials.

Ross said progress toward formation of the liquidating agency was proceeding rapidly.

In his letter of resignation, Small said he believed that the industrial transition from war to peace is largely behind us.

"I do not mean to imply that all of our problems have been overcome," Small continued. "However, once the difficult labor-management problems confronting the country are solved, and I am confident that they will be solved, higher levels of production will pave the way to an even higher standard of living for the people."

Expect Gas To Start Flowing In Pipelines By Nightfall

Washington, Dec. 5.—(P)—Natural gas to help ease the coal shortage is expected to start flowing through the Big and Little Inch pipelines by nightfall, a government official said today.

But, he added, it will take five to 14 days to move it into the fuel-hungry midwest.

The official, Max Ball, interior department consulting engineer, told the house committee investigating surplus property that "the condition of the lines will determine when actual delivery begins in the Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Tennessee areas."

He said that water that may have collected in the "valleys" and an inert nitrogen gas must be shoved out of the pipes before normal flow of natural gas can begin. The nitrogen gas was pumped

Seek Recreation Area In Westmoreland Co.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 5.—(P)—The Pittsburgh district U. S. engineers office reported today it had received a petition, bearing 200 signatures, asking that the 210-acre Loyahanna flood control reservoir in Westmoreland county be developed as a public recreation area.

The petition was presented to Col. W. E. Lawrence, district engineer, by Harry Ashbaugh, self-styled boating enthusiast of New Alexandria, Pa.

Col. Lawrence said the petition would be referred to state officials at Harrisburg to determine if Pennsylvania is interested in such a recreational area under authority granted in the federal flood control act.

Baruch Elated Over Russian Stand On Veto

Lake Success, N. Y., Dec. 5.—(P)—Bernard M. Baruch, elated over Soviet Russia's enunciation stand that the veto must not hinder inspection and control organizations watching over world arms limitation, was expected today to urge swift and positive action toward curbing atomic energy for peaceful uses.

Baruch, the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, was said authoritatively to have prepared a statement and some resolutions for presentation at an important policy-charting meeting of the commission.

Just what he will propose, has been closely guarded by the delegation but observers pointed out that the United States wants action on the atomic question. This was said to be especially the case since V. M. Molotov, Russian foreign minister, in a statement yesterday told the U. N. political committee that organizations should be set up within the framework of the U. N. Security Council for the inspection and control of arms limitation regulations.

Molotov said the veto power of the five permanent members of the Security Council had no relation to the work of the commission.

Many committee meetings again were scheduled today for the U. N. assembly, which is trying to complete its work by late next week.

Sentence Recalls S. O. Rebate Case

Washington, Dec. 5.—(P)—The $3,500,000 fine Judge T. Alan Goldsborough assessed against the United Mine Workers will, if collected, be the largest ever paid by a corporation or association, say justice department officials.

The largest fine they recall was the $29,240,000 the late Judge Kenesaw M. Landis slapped on the Standard Oil Company in 1907 in a freight rebate case. The supreme court reversed this decision and the company did not have to pay.

But Judge Goldsborough may not yet be through with the UMW. The way is open to assess further fines as long as the strike continues.

If such penalties were at the $250,000-per-day rate fixed for the first two weeks of the walkout, it could cost the union $10,000,000 a month to maintain the work stoppage.

CHAIN STORE HEAD DIES

BACK-TO-WORK ORDER ISSUED FOR OAKLAND

Agreement Reached After Emergency Is Declared For Relief of Back Bay Area

MACHINISTS RETURNING

Oakland, Calif., Dec. 5.—(P)—The city of Oakland and AFL leaders today reached an agreement to end a general strike which has strangled commerce in east bay cities for two days.

Oakland City Manager John F. Hassler said a return to work order would be given to all union business agents at a meeting today at 10 a. m. (1 p. m. EST).

A union statement confirmed the agreement based on the conditions that police would not be used in breaking picket lines and that city officials remain neutral in labor disputes. Hassler said he gave assurances meeting the union conditions.

The agreement was reached at an early morning meeting after some 1,000,000 east bay residents found all transportation tied up, food and other necessities in short supply and the city of Oakland under a state of emergency with full police powers voted to the mayor.

The general strike, fifth of its kind in the history of the American labor movement, moved toward a close shortly after announcement that the AFL Teamsters Union and the Independent Machinists Union would go back to work today.

Still strikebound are the Kahn and Hastings retail stores, source of the original dispute last October when the Retail Merchant Association declined to negotiate a contract for the two stores alone, but held out for blanket negotiations for all member stores when and if the union could show a majority of employees were union members.

The general strike began Tuesday after escorts of Berkeley and Oakland police convoyed 12 truckloads of merchandise into the two stores through picket lines, on Sunday morning.

Dave Beck, chief of the western conference of Teamsters and Pacific Coast AFL labor, broke off the first large segment of labor support by ordering his teamsters to "break the general strike" immediately because it was punishing "innocent employers, workers and the public." Local teamster leaders had no immediate comment.

Roy N. Brown, general vice president of the Independent International Association of Machinists, instructed district representatives by telephone to get their men back on the job today.

G. I. TAXI COMPANY DENIED APPLICATION

Harrisburg, Dec. 5.—(P)—The G. I. Taxicab Association has been denied the right to operate cab service in the city of Philadelphia by the public utility commission.

The commission handed down an order yesterday after deliberating for almost a year on an application by a group of veterans.

At the same time the commission directed the Yellow Cab Company of Philadelphia to increase its taxicabs "by the purchase of new cabs as rapidly as possible."

Dispute Over Trieste Bills Is Widening

New York, Dec. 5.—(P)—A dispute over who should bill for the proposed new international territory of Trieste appeared likely today to spread from the Foreign Ministers Council to the United Nations Assembly.

Moreover, unless the issue is settled in a few days some diplomats see a possibility that the whole Trieste settlement might be jeopardized by lack of funds to operate the new territory.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin recommended in a session of the Big Four Council last night that the U. N. assembly be asked to authorize the payment of funds for Trieste to cover both the salaries of the governor and his staff and any deficit which might be incurred in the operation of the territorial government.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov opposed this on the ground the territory itself should meet its own financial needs and he indicated a belief that any deficit might be financed by assessing the costs against private property in the Trieste area.

Six Months and $3,510,000 Later

The John L. Lewis at left was a happy man. It was May and he had just signed an agreement with the government ending his coal strike. But it was a different John L. Lewis, right, who emerged from federal court in Washington Wednesday. His United Mine Workers had just been fined $3,500,000 and he himself $10,000 for contempt of court in the latest coal strike, which the government charged was a violation of last May's contract.

Buck Crashes Home And Stays to Dinner

Lehigh, Dec. 5.—(P)—A buck that crashed into Mrs. Walter Nussbaum's home is staying to dinner.

He broke through a window while Mrs. Nussbaum was entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Walter Andreas. The buck was upsetting furniture and smashing dishes when Andreas tackled him.

He was wrestling the animal when police arrived and shot the 125-pound animal. All who participated in the capture were invited to a vendison feast.

Wyatt Quits As Expediter Of Housing

Washington, Dec. 5.—(P)—Wilson W. Wyatt bowed out as federal housing expeditor today, choosing to resign rather than go along with a White House policy of relaxing controls over the building industry "as rapidly as possible."

The resignation of the youthful former Mayor of Louisville was accepted "reluctantly" last evening by President Truman. Its announcement meant the president had ruled against Wyatt's contention that the veterans housing program must be pressed on an "all-out emergency basis."

Mr. Truman did not mention the behind-the-scenes battle which has been going on for some weeks between Wyatt and the heads of other government agencies over the housing program.

But he issued a statement saying that "henceforth the program must be given its proper emphasis in the overall economy and controls must be relaxed as rapidly as possible without threatening the success of the housing program."

Mr. Truman emphasized, too, that the objective—housing for veterans as soon as possible—is unchanged.

Wyatt, questioned by reporters, declined any statement except to say that his position "should be obvious" and that he planned to leave Washington at once.

Housing officials said they had no information as to the details of which portions of the housing program will continue to be carried out. They predicted that a limitation would remain as would the priorities given to veterans in the purchase or rental of new homes.

Lehman Hinted As World Bank Head

Washington, Dec. 5.—(P)—Speculation on a successor to Eugene Meyer as president of the 38-nation World Bank entered today on the name of Herbert Lehman.

Lehman, a four-term governor of New York and defeated Democratic senatorial candidate in the November 5 elections, has a background of considerable banking experience and connections.

Another possibility mentioned for the $30,000-a-year, tax-free post is Vice President Harold D. Smith, former United States director of the budget whom Meyer took into the bank with him last June.

Meyer's resignation was submitted last night, six months from the day he was appointed. He asked that it be effective Dec. 18 or earlier if a successor is chosen before then.

Slayer of Best Friend May Learn Fate Before Evening

Andrew Mizak, slayer of his best friend, will know his fate at the hands of the jury sometime this evening, as the case was placed before the jury this afternoon.

Testimony in the case was finished this morning shortly before 11 o'clock and a short recess was taken. District Attorney M. A. Kornreich then addressed the jury, weaving together the story of the killing brought out by the witnesses produced by the commonwealth. His address was a logical one and he skillfully wove together the story of the sordid happening in the isolated country home in Columbus township on August 23rd last.

James Zebrillo, Erie attorney, who is defending Mizak followed this afternoon in an address in which he asked that his client be freed of any charge, claiming that the shooting which took the life of John Kalinski was justified.

Kalinski, he claimed, was a large man and, in a condition produced by drink, had assaulted his aged, paralytic father and threatened Mizak, who, fearful for his life, defended himself. It was a worthy effort.

Judge Allison Wade then charged the jury. He revealed the law in connection with the evidence deduced and reviewed much of the testimony and pointed out to the jurors the verdicts that could be rendered as the first degree element had been withdrawn from the case. His charge was clear and unimpassioned and was lucid and a masterful piece of law.

The jury with tipstiffs retired to the jury room and it is not expected that a great length of time will elapse before a verdict is secured.

This morning a sister of the dead man, John Kalinski, was on the stand for a time and she evidenced a knowledge that her father had been assaulted by her brother many times. In fact she had warned him relative to the practice.

Mizak was also called to the stand, once more this morning by the commonwealth to go over the map in evidence to point out his position at the time of the shooting and also to give a clearer understanding of where his victim stood in the home.

Coroner Ed C. Lowrey was also recalled to testify to the fact that Mizak had made certain statements. A question asked in cross examination as to whether or not Lowrey had heard Mizak say Kalinski was choking his father on the couch, led to a verbal combat by attorneys. The matter was settled in the judge's chamber and Lowrey was allowed to answer "No."

Hunting Trip Plans End In Fatal Shooting

Oil City, Dec. 5.—(P)—Plans for a deer hunting trip ended in tragedy yesterday when a blast from a .30-30 caliber rifle her son had just bought ended the life of 56-year-old Ella Moore Prather at her home in Cherrytree township.

The son, John Prather, 31, who suffered leg wounds while serving with the army overseas, had been testing and adjusting the sights of the gun, firing an occasional shot through the doorway of the home at tin cans in the yard.

Mrs. Prather, who had been putting out the family washing, started to enter the house just as her son fired a shot. The bullet hit her at a range of about a yard, ripping away part of the skull.

Dr. Theodore Gabrecht, deputy coroner of Venango county, said the shooting was accidental.

It was the second tragedy in the Prather family in recent years. Mrs. Prather's daughter and son-in-law were killed in an automobile accident a few years ago.

Surviving Mrs. Prather are her husband, six children and 11 grandchildren.

Offer 'Frisco Site To U. N. For Free

Lake Success, N. Y., Dec. 5.—(P)—The American delegation told the United Nations permanent headquarters committee today that it was President Truman's purpose to offer the historic presidential military reservation in San Francisco free of cost as a prospective site for the world peace capital.

The committee debate went into its second day with San Francisco and Philadelphia as the main contenders in the headquarters race. India led off this morning with the expressed hope that the United States would find it possible to offer the presidio.

STRIKE CONTINUES DESPITE PROSPECT OF NEW CONTEMPT CITATION AGAINST LEADER

With Grim Deadlock Confronting Country, Group of Rail Unions Issue Plea That Union and Government Call the Whole Thing Off

EARLY SUPREME COURT RULING TO BE SOUGHT

Washington, Dec. 5.—(P)—President Truman will address the nation on the coal strike crisis at 9:30 p. m. Sunday.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters today that Mr. Truman will speak for about 20 minutes on the situation growing out of the coal strike, which has brought about mounting unemployment and has stymied reconverting industry.

Ross declined to speculate on the possibility of a settlement of the strike prior to the broadcast, which will be carried by all major networks.

It will be the president's first talk to the nation since the announced removal of meat controls in mid-October.

Mr. Truman is expected to appeal to the striking soft coal miners over the head of John L. Lewis to go back to work.

He was said to have withheld his decision to make the speech until Lewis' contempt of court trial was concluded.

End of the trial had brought about fresh prodding by congress members for a radio appeal to the miners, or some other action aimed at getting coal production.

Washington, Dec. 5.—(P)—John L. Lewis, continuing his relentless throttle on soft coal production, conferred with his lawyers today on whether the United Mine Workers should answer their $3,500,000 contempt judgment with a "try and get it."

As the conference went forward at UMW headquarters—and the industry-strangling coal strike showed no signs of abating—it became known that President Truman will appeal directly to the miners.

Officials close to the president said he will broadcast his appeal within a few days, possibly Sunday night.

Questions confronting the Lewis legal battery included:

1. Whether to post bonds to cover the $3,500,000 fine on the union, and if so how it is to be raised. (The $10,000 fine on Lewis personally will be covered by a bond before 3 p. m., the union lawyers told Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.)

2. Whether to appeal at once to the circuit court of appeals, or adopt delaying tactics. The legal staff left no doubt that an appeal will be taken, but the timing was problematical.

3. The prospect of a new contempt citation, if Lewis continues to ignore Judge Goldsborough's reformed order to call off the strike.

4. As possibility of prosecution under the Smith-Connally act, which makes it a penal offense to incite or encourage strikes against the government.

Sitting in on the union conference was Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Kennedy, former lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, on whom will rest the responsibility of raising the bond if Lewis decides to meet it. Kennedy has reported the union's treasury is good for $13,500,000.

There was still a chance that Lewis might decide to call off the strike, which began Nov. 21, after "termination" by Lewis of his contract with the government.

The UMW risks at $250,000 additional fine every day that the strike continues in defiance of a temporary injunction which Goldsborough issued yesterday.

Lewis also is risking a jail term which he escaped yesterday. Goldsborough said he thought the prison sentence would be proper for Lewis, but bowed to the government recommendation for a fine instead.

From every outward indication, the bushy-browed miners leader (Turn to Page Sixteen)

Union Leaders Warn Fines Will Not End Fuel Stoppage

Pittsburgh, Dec. 5.—(P)—Bitterly indignant AFL-United Mine Workers today indicated the government-leveled $3,500,000 fine would do little toward ending the 15-day-old strike that has already idled another 172,000 persons and threatens the nation with complete economic paralysis.

"Let the government attorneys dig the damn coal," cried Bill Jones of the Gibson mine at Bentleyville. "We won't go back until Lewis tells us to, fine or no fine."

Four Washington county locals in western Pennsylvania reacted to the penalty by sending blank checks to UMW headquarters in Washington to the amount necessary to pay the fine.

Union leaders across the nation fiercely denounced the fines. Dave Fowler, president of the UMW Oklahoma-Arkansas district, termed the penalties an attempt to destroy the UMW and said it "invites the thug system and yellow-dog contracts again to be placed in the mining camps of the country."

President William Blizard of UMW District 17 in West Virginia, declared the fine is "part of a plot by the Democratic party to destroy the union." He added the rank and file miners are "behind

Court Scene Provides Setting For a Real Hollywood Drama

Washington, Dec. 5.—(P)—But he told Lewis that if he wished to detail his financial position, before his fine was set, go ahead.

Lewis said he didn't own anything much. A couple of houses. Barely enough to meet expenses. And here came one of the most dramatic moments any courtroom ever had.

Defiant, scornful, eyes flashing, Lewis literally snarled at the judge:

"But don't let that deter you. You can levy a fine on me any amount you—"

Goldsborough, a mild man, interrupted, mildly. "Don't get into contempt of court, I advise you, sir," he said.

"Sir, I have been adjudged in contempt," snapped Lewis. "There could be another contempt proceeding," said the judge.

Lewis glowered at the judge. The judge peered quietly back at John L. Lewis' stare.

Lewis glanced at his lawyers. He looked back at the judge, quietly awaiting Lewis' next move.

And then, slowly, reluctantly, he sat down.

Give up, Hollywood. You'll never equal a scene like that.

40TH ANNIVERSARY OF SEAL
The Christmas Seal will have a "birthday" next Monday, for it was on Dec. 9, 1907 that the first Christmas Seals were sold in the United States to raise funds for tuberculosis work, it was pointed out today by Guy O. McKinley, president of the Warren County Tuberculosis Society.

In honor of the fortieth anniversary the portraits of four pioneers in the Christmas Seal Sale movement are included on each sheet of the 1946 Christmas Seal which shows an old-fashioned lamp. In the sheet of 100 Seals 96 carry the lamp design, with the four center Seals, Numbers 45, 46, 55 and 56, showing Jacob Riis, Miss Emily P. Bissell, E. A. Van Valkenburg and Leigh Mitchell Hodges, all of whom played a prominent part in the first American Seal Sale. The portraits are printed in black on a white background with the names in the lower left-hand corner and a small double-barred cross in red in the upper right-hand corner.

Jacob Riis, Danish-born American, wrote an article pleading for an American Christmas Seal to raise funds to fight tuberculosis; Miss Bissell, of Wilmington, acted on Riis's suggestion when she learned that money was needed to continue the treatment of eight tuberculosis patients; E. A. Valkenburg, publisher and editor of the Philadelphia North American, and Leigh Mitchell Hodges, columnist on that paper, promoted Miss Bissell's Seal Sale in that paper.

"Since 1907 Christmas Seals have been sold annually in the United States to finance local, state and national activities directed at conquering one of man's worst enemies, tuberculosis," said Mr. McKinley.

"Each year the success of the Seal Sale has depended greatly upon the unselfish interest of volunteers who have cheerfully performed numerous tasks. The workers and the committees have been generous with their time and effort in bringing before the people the message of the Christmas Seal and the story of how these Seals help to protect the health of the people. We are deeply grateful for their help."

SANITARY SANTA CLAUS
No more may a department store Santa Claus lift a goggle-eyed visiting child on his knee—unless the kindly saint is wearing white gloves, and clean ones at that. Santa Claus may not kiss and credulous child babbling his hopes for an airplane or a baseball bat into the good man's ear.

So says the law in Newark, N. J., and the health officer is going to make the rounds to see that the Kris Kringle obeys. Further, no Santa may have the job until he first passes a blood and skin test and has his chest x-rayed. His whiskers must be clean, his clothes spotless.

This makes sense, says the Bradford Era, and it is high time some city health department got after the beary-eyed, often dirty old man who put on such Santa Claus shows on streets and in department stores. All they ever accomplished was to destroy a child's faith in a lovely myth—destroying it unpleasantly instead of letting him grow out of a pleasant fancy normally along with other growths of mind and body.

Where does John L. Lewis stand now? And what's next? According to a Washington dispatch there are three chief points outstanding at this minute: An appeal to a higher court; a temporary injunction; and maybe a trial to see whether he has a right to end his contract with the government. And it might be added, neither of these will pave the way for outdoor lights this Christmas season.

Patrons of Warren stores note a great difference in the goods offered for sale this Christmas when compared with the offerings of two years ago. Pasteboard games, wooden toys, etc., of a cheap appearance flooded the stores at high prices. Today metal and well made toys and beautiful dolls are offered. The kiddies are getting a break.

Bus companies are preparing to add many buses on their lines to care for the holiday trade. Bus deliveries have been fairly large since the end of the war and with curtailment of passenger train services on the railroads due to the coal strike the buses will handle record-breaking business.

But one vacant store-room in the business section marks a general rise in the business life of the city.

A man is known by the company he keeps—from yawning.

WASHINGTON—Federal Trade Commissioner Lowell Mason breakfasts once a month with his associates and doesn't utter a word. Neither do they.

These quiet breakfasts, held in the commissioner's private dining room and attended by about 40 or 50 employees, from trial attorneys to secretaries, were Commissioner Mason's own idea.

They were designed to give employees a chance to take time out from their routine duties and everyday problems to rest their minds and meditate on spiritual aspects over their eggs and coffee.

Commissioner Mason's idea for the "quiet breakfasts" grew out of the practice he and other lawyers had of meeting for an occasional quiet lunch when he was practicing law in Chicago.

The breakfasts usually start at 8 A.M. with tomato juice, scrambled eggs, biscuits and coffee.

The only person who opens his or her mouth other than for the purpose of popping in some food, is a speaker invited to say a few inspirational words.

Though Commissioner Mason is a Unitarian, his "quiet breakfasts" are non-sectarian. Speakers who have addressed the group over a series of 11 breakfasts have included Catholic priests, Protestant ministers and Jewish rabbis.

A COLUMNIST for Corps Diplomatie, a Washington publication, tells an amusing anecdote about Under Secretary of State Dean Acheson. Mr. Acheson was addressing a group of ambassadors and ministers after dinner one evening.

At the end of his talk Acheson said:

"Of course, all I know is what I learned at my mother's knee—and other joints."

THE quota of gift boxes for members of the American Junior Red Cross this year is 1,000,000, double the 500,000 sent last year.

The packing and shipping of these boxes is a year-round business with the youngsters, but they concentrate most of their efforts on the Christmas packages.

More than 19,000,000 American school children are members of the Junior Red Cross. Members, by voluntary contribution, maintain a National Children's Fund.

Red Cross headquarters report that more than $2,000,000 worth of school and health supplies purchased from this fund have been sent to war-devastated countries in the past year and a half.

How to Stop Worrying

I guess folks in our town do about as much worrying as in yours—over housing and prices, and crops, and jobs—and the little domestic problems that are always coming up.

Dad Hoskins, who's lived to the happy age of eighty, has a simple formula for stopping worry. About every problem, he asks himself: Is there anything I can do about it? If there is, he never postpones making a decision, or taking necessary action.

If there isn't anything he can do about it, he sets aside a "worrying hour" after dinner, and gets his worrying over in one concentrated period. When that's over, he relaxes over a friendly glass of beer with Ma Hoskins—and they talk about pleasant things together, until bedtime.

From where I sit, that's as workable a formula as you could find... right down to the mellow glass of beer that seems to wink away your worries.

Pretty Hand-Sewn Gifts

Closing up gaps in her Christmas list, this knitter finishes bed jacket which matches the pair of foot-warmers on the floor. On the table are a sequin-spangled hood and sets of ballet slippers, evening bag and headband for glamor girls; a tiny playsuit for baby; a child's bonnet and gloves and Argyle socks for a lucky gent.

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

New York — (NEA) — Needle-worked or hand-sewn lovelies represent the duxury of rarity in a machine age and in a country of mass production. That's why you can thriftilly fill in the gaps of a Christmas list with almost fabulous gifts, if you make them yourself.

That's why in a year of shortages and high-priced merchandise the needlework counters are scenes of big booms, fashionable pattern books are thumbled ragged, and buyers who anticipated all of this and laid in ample supplies look and act smug.

Knitters are tackling everything from Argyle socks to sweaters that are headed for the smart ski-trails, the buyers report. Needles are devouring yarn by the box to make infants' sun-suits, bed jackets and boots, bonnets and gloves, and ballet slippers for grown-ups. When the knitter's last thread is snipped, out comes her saucerful of silver bird sequins that light up Cinderella hoods, headbands and evening bags for the glamor gals on her list.

Crochet addicts, looking for new fashion fields in which to triumph, are making accessories overlaid to embellish with gilt thread and jeweled touches. Gifts for good little girls and boys—wooly-warm creepers, leggings and bright washable toys—are as easily coaxed out of a ball of cotton.

Cross-stitching is in for the big boom in years. Needles lying idle during the war years for lack of materials can fly again into stamped patterns, for making rugs and footstool pads, because selective designs are on counters again. Wooden footstools for completing a gift of cross-stitching are back in a choice of distinctive designs.

Aiding women to make a little look like a lot, local sewing centers teach tricks of converting remnants or sewing-box scraps into pert hostess aprons, skating helmets for children or shoe bags for travelers, which can be labeled as such by embroidery or personalized for the lucky lady on a list with needleworked monograms or initials.

This Turkish fellow croched of cotton thread and stuffed with cotton batting is an easy-to-make and fetching child's toy.

At virtually no cost, this hand-embroidered shoe bag of fabric, salvaged from a scrap bag, makes an attractive gift.

(Paragon) Give the lady on your list who likes hand-made things a decorative cross-stitched square to mount on a footstool.

Many Participate in "Play-time" By Backstage Efforts

When the curtain for the Warren Players' public presentation of "Play-time" rises promptly at 8:30 tonight, many a behind-the-scenes craftsman will be watching with critical appraisal the results of his many weeks of preparation for the event.

In addition to the directors and program committees whose names have already been announced, the following committees have been actively engaged with the three plays which are included in "Play-time": Frank Cluckshank, head of the set construction crew. Assisting him in the latter task have been Edwin Africa, David A. Smith, John Miner, Henry Olson, M. M. McClure, Robert Specht, Fred Emhardt, R. H. McCarthy, and Kenneth Graham. George Cunningham has been solely responsible for lighting effects and Walter Whaley has charge of incidental music which is part of the play's background.

Mary Margaret Wade, Frances Froesch, Jane Miner, Gladys Wilson, and Gerda Lawrence have arranged for properties used in the plays. In addition, Gerda Lawrence also serves as prompter for one of the plays, with Meredith Jones and Elizabeth Forsgren performing similar functions for the other plays. Make-up has been the assignment of Jo Russo, Lois Muir, and Edwin Africa, while costume designing and supervision has been the responsibility of Edna Thompson and Elizabeth Forsgren.

As usual, strict observance of the 8:30 curtain deadline will be enforced and playgoers who have not already secured seat reservations are urged to do so well in advance of this hour. The box office will be open at 7:30 on both nights of the play.

Cleveland Poet Is Monday Speaker At Woman's Club

Following a one o'clock luncheon at the clubhouse on Monday afternoon, Woman's Club members will enjoy a fine program presented by the Literature Department. Music will be by Mrs. W. E. Yeager, Mrs. Harold Flowers and Mrs. Frederick Olson, and the guest speaker will be Frances Boal Mehlik, of Cleveland, widely known poet.

Mrs. Mehlik is the author of a beautiful little volume of poetry, "A Sinner Contemplates", published by Talarian April of this year. She was born in Titusville, later lived in Titusville and now resides in Shaker Heights.

She holds the gold key of the Ohio Poetry Society, and is a past president of that organization. Her poetry has been widely published in newspapers and magazines throughout the nation, and has elicited high praise from the major poetry critics. She is an active member of the Ohioana Library at Columbus.

Ted Robinson says of her in the Cleveland Plain Dealer: "There have been, among all my contributors of verse, a few whose work was both distinguished and inspired; and among these, hers was always the first rank."

Robert P. Tristram Coffin has this to say of her writings: "Frances Boal Mehlik is to my mind one of the most promising younger poets of our country."

CALL FROM BERLIN FOR ANNIVERSARY

Her talent is one of the most authentically creative in contemporary American poetry—in my opinion—an opinion confirmed by hundreds of the lovers of poetry with whom she has permitted me to share her work."

Eastern Star Has Special Party For Its Past Matrons

The regular meeting of the Warren Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, was largely attended Tuesday evening at the Masonic Temple building, when the members honored their past matrons.

A large, lighted tree, complemented with especially decorated small trees throughout the Chapter room, created a Christmas setting in keeping with the special ceremonies conducted by the officers.

Margaret M. Gleese, presiding matron, welcomed the following past matrons who have served Warren Chapter: Laura S. Rogers, Elissa S. Dunham, Mabel Peel, Alice Thompson, Zora S. Koebly, Hazel Chesnut, May Belle Baird, Mary E. Regner, Helen A. Gibson, Ruth L. Brown, Viola S. McLaughlin, and Ethel C. Smedley. Visiting past matrons from other jurisdictions, also honored were Ruth Tenzon and Lena Barickman. All the honored past matrons were recipients of symbolic gifts in remembrance of the occasion.

Following the formal meeting a delightful program of Christmas music was presented by the local well known girls' quartet: Frances Carlson, Constance Dey, Jane Munn, and Gladys Jensen. Miss Jensen also favored the audience with a solo, "O, Holy Babe". Katharine Randall was soloist for the accompaniment. A Christmas reading, "Peace on Earth," was cleverly portrayed by Helen Morrow, who is well known for her dramatic presentations.

Refreshments were served from a lace covered table with a Yule log and red candles, complemented with pine boughs and cones as a centerpiece, carrying out the continuity of the Christmas theme. Maude Ross and Minnie Sonne presided. The following members composed the refreshment committee headed by Cynthia VerMilyea and Leona Daley: Velva Edris, Flora Gilmore, Ireta King, Sara Lyle, Elizabeth Stover and May Swanson.

McCarthy Returns For Music At The Community Party

The teens and twenties will welcome the news that Sunday night's community party will feature Mac McCarthy's Orchestra in a real "jam session." Tomorrow's release on the floor show numbers will also carry the names of the men playing in the band.

JoAnn Phillips and Ellwood Beckwith, in charge of this week's party arrangements, have an efficient staff of assistants. Mary Evelyn Hill promises another clever decorative scheme for the gymnasium. Charles Sherman's committee will cooperate on setup in the morning from ten o'clock until noon.

In the evening, Jeanne Way's committee will officiate at the door, making a record of attendance and reminding young people of the age range. Beatty school young people have been promised a party for this month, on the 23rd, and the committee will appreciate their cooperation this week. Dividing the age groups is necessary so the gymnasium capacity will not be exceeded.

Don Erickson is checkroom chairman and Julian Gordon has charge of both game rooms. Janie Helmon is handling arrangements at the refreshments stand and Lewis Lowe heads the important cleanup committee.

Tessie Fino has planned the floor show, the acts to be announced in tomorrow evening's Times-Mirror. The party will start at 8:15 and will last until 11:15, with the floor show at ten o'clock. Teen-agers, starting with freshmen and going through the early twenties, will be admitted.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

These 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it causes many troubles: rheumatism, flatulence, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a standard diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons, a waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

LUDLOW

The choir anthem was "Thine Is The Kingdom". Sunday school met after the service. After the regular business meeting was concluded, the club presented Hugh Siggins, retiring vice-president, with a new sled which gift was purchased by the boys themselves. Siggins, who will move away from the school area, was presented with the gift as the boys' parting gesture. Richard Smith was elected to fill the vacancy left by Siggins.

After a few minutes of group games, the meeting was closed with the Gray-Y closing ritual. The club meets each Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

Miss Louise Nelson of Thiel College spent the Thanksgiving vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Nelson.

“You girls will have to quit this arguing every morning—let John wear his own shirt for a change!”

MACKENZIE'S Column

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Although Yugoslavia is still making motions toward Italy in the hope of a better deal on Trieste, it appears that the four-power agreement actually will go through, internationalizing the port on terms which represents one of Russia's major postwar concessions.

Impartial observers have recognized a great deal of justice in Yugoslavia's claim to the Venezia Giulia area, from both the ethnic and economic standpoints. It was carved out of Austria-Hungary after World War I and given to Italy over Woodrow Wilson's objections in payment of a Franco-British promise made in 1915 to get Italy into the war. Wilson stood by the slav claim, but finally had to give in.

Trieste under the Hapsburgs was the third port in the Mediterranean. It gradually declined after World War I but becomes increasingly important when that area is once again more or less unified, economically, under Soviet Russia. And the port would mean the difference between leaving Yugoslavia with virtually no important outlets and making her an important link between the world and Soviet Europe.

There is no evidence that Russia intends to withdraw from the outposts she has established. Although Tito may have embarrasssed Moscow by some of his embroilments with the western powers, there is no indication that he is out of favor. The reparations which will be paid into the Russian sphere by Italy, once the treaty is signed, are too inconsequential to have hurried the decision. There is no evidence so far of any real quid pro quo, such as a U. S. promise to relax her intention of putting the screws on what she considers unhealthy governments, such as those of Yugoslavia and Poland, through withholding relief supplies and credits.

The cynical view is that Russia, realizing the possibilities of future trouble in the internationalization plan, is deliberately leaving a time-bomb in the territory of the western bloc to explode later, when it might prove of more value to her than while American and British occupation troops remain. Holders of this view point out that maintenance of a general disturbance, pending the opportunity for more direct action, is a familiar Communist technique.

But to take this view is to reject the general belief that Russia, regardless of how she may hope one day to spread her ideologies, wants peace for now.

Coming simultaneously with the beginning of her demobilization in Germany, with agreement on the principles of inspection to further disarmament, and with admission of international interest in the Danube, the Russian concession on Trieste seems more than a mere temporary maneuver.

COLD NO'S

No, your snow-sneez isn't of much help. And while you're at it, defrost your wits as well as your windshield so you won't get caught with your panes down again. You must see danger to avoid it, so keep those defrosters and wipers working. Don't forget the heater, tire chains and headlights, either, when preparing for winter.

HOLIDAY SAFETY TIPS

Careful of those little lights—Electricity sometimes bites.

Nailing Christmas decorations is a hazardous occupation.

Don't teeter on a pile of books! A broken leg would spoil your looks.

Driving in a one-horse sleigh was safer than the modern way.

Clean your walks of snow and ice. Killing visitors isn't nice.

Go easy on the turkey and cake! Don't risk a Christmas tummy-ache.

There's Plenty to Distract Us From Peace Confabs

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

There's plenty to distract our attention here at home—what with the cold wave to remind us of the wintry potentialities of the coal shortage, and the heavy gunfire in our U. N. peace organization—but let's not overlook that impending Indian round-table conference which opened in London.

The Indian problem ranks among the vital issues of our time. Failure to reach a satisfactory solution might result in the catastrophe of civil war in that country.

That's a hard thing to have to say, but it's true and it is well that we recognize the fact. The round-table conference is a momentous affair.

Three of the world's outstanding personalities have come out of the far east to sit down in the British capital with government officials to try to figure out ways and means of bringing India's warring Hindus and Moslems together and thereby implementing England's offer of independence to that subcontinent with its four hundred millions.

There is Field Marshal Lord Wavell, viceroy of the king—emperor's greatest imperial possession. There is Pandit Nehru, the aristocratic Hindu who heads the present interim Indian government and, next to Mahatma Gandhi, is the most powerful leader in the country. There is Mahomed Ali Jinnah, brilliant and highly cultured head of the Moslem league, who guides the destinies of 90,000,000 Moslems.

Upon those three men, more than any others, rests the immediate future of India. Wavell's role is largely that of conciliator.

Here is the Indian situation in brief:

After much sparring and heart-burning both the Hindus and the Moslems agreed to participate in an interim government. Nehru was made chief minister of this provisional regime since he was president of the major political organization, the predominantly Hindu all-India congress. Both Hindus and Moslems were given positions, and things got under way leading up to the meeting of a national assembly to frame a provisional constitution.

However, the old animosities broke out and the Moslems withdrew. They said they had no chance of fair treatment by the Hindus who outnumbered the Moslems three to one. Therefore Jinnah reverted to his demand for Pakistan, that is, independent Moslem states. Both the Hindus and the British want to see a federal government under which will come all the provinces and states.

But this political break wasn't the worst of the situation. Terrible communal rioting has been going on for weeks in various centers between the Hindus and Moslems. Thousands of lives have been lost and great numbers have been injured.

The probabilities are that Jinnah and Nehru could bring their followers into line, although it would be unwise to take this for granted. There are in both parties extreme left wingers who might challenge the leaders and try to create a civil war.

Green Will Is a Pattern Of Simplicity

The will of the late G. G. Green was probated in the office of Recorder Don Schuler on Tuesday. It disposes of an estate in excess of $10,000 and is a model of simplicity, reflecting the character of the maker.

The document is brief and is as follows: "Whatever I have I give to my wife. If she dies before I do all goes to my children."

The attention of many has been attracted to the document which in its brevity is a model.

Gifts Teen-Agers Can Make

A hand painted textile Christmas gift which carries a personal message to a friend is a gracious way to stretch a slim budget. Rosmarie Berger, New York design student, right, shows how easy it is to stencil a colorful design on a scarf intended for a teen-ager.

Hobby interests are source for motifs painted on tie, hankie and headband above.

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

New York — (NEA) — Armed with a box of textile paints and some fabric, teen-agers struggling to stretch a short budget over a long Christmas list can solve their dilemma with colorful hand-painted textile gifts. So can moms and older sisters.

Ready with advice on how to proceed is textile-design student Rosmarie Berger. Her hand-painted designs on scarves, ties, headbands and hankies are rapidly attaining a professional status, as proven by various commercial offers.

Designs which salute a friend's foibles are the best bell-ringers with the younger set, says Rosmarie. "For example, a handkerchief for an artistic friend might carry a palette and brush motif in the corner. Old school ties for campus athletes can bow to their sport's interest—stick figures of football, track or basketball players are effective and easy to do. To co-eds give scarves painted with nicknames, initials, college motifs or splashy seasonal greetings". Table place-mats, bridge sets, and napkins are fine for older women on your list, she says.

Best materials to work with, according to Rosmarie, are cotton, linen, brushed rayon and heavy silk—the latter she salvages from her mother's scrap-bag, and fringes it to make luxurious scarves.

Before you open the paint jars, says Rosmarie, figure out your design on paper with pencil or crayon. Keep it simple. Decide exactly how you will place it on the material.

Next, trace your design on heavy waxed stencil paper and cut it out neatly with a razor blade or a stencil-cutter. Thumb-tack material to a drawing board. Mix paints to stiff consistency. Don't overload brush with paint. Put stencil on fabric and fill in with color. If you are using a multi-color design, let one color dry before applying a second.

After fabric is painted, leave it alone to dry for 24 hours. Then press on both sides with a hot iron, first over a damp cloth, then over a dry one.

Should your gift be soiled from handling, it can be washed before it's wrapped, because colors don't run, according to Rosmarie.

BROADWAY

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK — Manager Robert Christenberry of the Hotel Astor on Times Square admits he jumped the gun just a little too soon.

Christenberry looked over several polls which suggested the change in musical tastes from the swing to the sweet, with a good deal of rising popularity among the masses for concert music.

Therefore Bob announced that the Columbia Room of the handsome Times Square rooming house would abandon dance music and hot jazz emphasis in that portion of the premises and concentrate on strictly longhair stuff.

A CONCERT orchestra was booked, rehearsed to a Carnegie Hall proficiency, and started an engagement in the Columbia Room. It went over like a submarine, proving probably that Times Square is not quite ready yet for Bach, Beethoven and Mozart, and that Gershwin, Cole Porter and Irving Berlin are the big fellows still, whatever the polls show.

Therefore, the concert combo was quietly snatched out over a weekend and the bright tempos of Sande Williams and his dance orchestra were returned to their proper place. Again everything is noisier and happier on Times Square.

BARNEY RUDITSKY, a Broadway detective only slightly less well-known in the bright bulb belt than the famed Johnny Broderick, retired from the New York constabulary and settled in Hollywood, where his native energy precluded his sitting still too long. So Barney opened a liquor store, and all his friends in the film colony, numbering hundreds of the biggest and littiest stars, turned out for his premiere.

When George Raft, one of Barney's intimates, started shooting his film "Nocturne" he decided he would shoot one long chase sequence in front of Barney's store, thereby giving Barney the benefit of some coast-to-coast advertising.

After the sequence was shot, Barney drove up, surveyed the scene, and to Raft's question as to how he liked it, answered: "Sure, and it was swell for my rival. You put all the cameras and lights in front of my place—and then aimed them right toward my competitor across the street."

WASHINGTON LETTER

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—In the $290,000 Moorish-style legation newly occupied by the Minister of Saudi Arabia, an Arabian soda-jerk called Daoud is the most popular character.

Since his religion forbids the drinking or serving of alcoholic beverages, the minister, Sheikh Asad Al-Fagih, in true diplomatic fashion and in deference to his own sweet tooth, had a soda fountain instead of a bar installed in his home.

Behind its shining counter, Daoud (pronounced David) presides with great eloquence, especially when the Sheikh entertains. A large number of Washington palates, jaded with stronger stuff, get a real kick out of the concoctions Daoud dreams up.

ALTHOUGH Daoud has only been in this country three months he can turn out anything from a strawberry whatchamacallie to an elaborate banana split. Daoud learned his profession the easy way. He just visited all the soda fountains he could find and ordered and ate various sodas and sundaes until he learned how to make them himself.

Most of the American guests at the legation like the strawberry and chocolate affairs, or the cider (not hard) which flows from one gadget of the fountain. The Saudi-Arabians, however, just dote on Tutti-frutti.

Daoud draws on all his imagination for this. Over a couple of scoops of ice cream he lavishly spreads bananas, peaches, pine-apple, raisins, nuts and gobs of whipped cream.

The Saudi-Arabians bought the great 15-room Woodland Drive mansion from Rep. Wadsworth (R-NY) for $90,000. They spent $200,000 fixing it up. They seem to be more proud of the soda fountain room at the back of the house than anything else.

THERE is another favorite nook—the sun room. It has been completely redecorated in varicolored tiles. It has a fountain and potted palms.

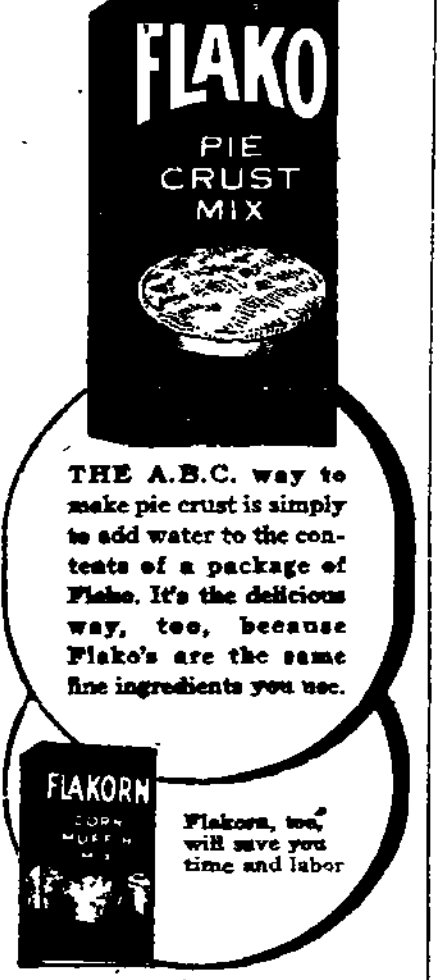

Most of the color scheme is achieved in cream. Even the furniture is this color. Arabian tapestries are exquisitely draped at the windows and priceless rugs cover every floor.

Outside, the building is painted white and green—colors in the Arabian flag.

The Minister has four servants—a cook, two maids and a butler. His wife and five children are in Arabia but expect to come to Washington early next year.

Washington society will have its first formal look-see at the legation the end of November, when the Minister will entertain in honor of two princes from his country. They are Prince Faisal, son of the king and chairman of his country's delegation to the UN, and his brother, Prince Naser, Governor of Riyadh.

On this occasion Daoud is likely to have his hands full. The Minister has invited 900 guests and they won't all be calling for cider.

Give 'Em Glamor

True gift of beauty aids can make any girl happy, even if it is only a box of powder or a lipstick, a little added something to flatter her vanity. Even Pop comes in for his share of pampering in the cosmetics department, for what man doesn't like to sprinkle himself with a bit of talc or tonic occasionally? There are handsome shaving kits containing soap, shaving powder and after-shave lotions in outdoor he-man scents. Gadgets such as a travel kit containing razor, comb and hairbrush come in mighty handy for business or pleasure trips. Mom, who spends most of her time planning for everybody else, will love a glamor gift she wouldn't buy for herself. A compact or a kit with all the nail essentials would be just the ticket. A toilet water and atomizer set is another tree-brightener for Mom. Big Sis is the girl who will appreciate some perfume enclosed in a ballet slipper; or a silver and gold pill box containing cream perfume; or four lipsticks in a gold lame purse. A chateleine lipstick is perfect for a busy girl. The Teen-ager who is discriminating about her cosmetics will love some of the new scented soap, cologne, sachet hangers or sachet bags that can be made at home if you are feeling ambitious. There are even one or two things on the cosmetics shelf you can get for Baby if you are stuck for an idea for a little niece or nephew. Baby sets consisting of lotion, cream and baby oil are decorative as well as serviceable in the nursery. And for that little girl Sub-Sub-Deb you can find a melody music box containing sachet, lotion and bubble bath, shampoo, dusting powder, hand lotion and toilet water, all essential to teaching the little lady early the importance of being sweet and well groomed.

Alias Santa Gets Check To Aid in Worthy Effort

Old Alias Santa Claus sorta shoved his red banana up under his whiskers and wiped away the good old dew that had formed when the sun came through the clouds this morning. "Whew," muttered the old boy, "it's pretty hot in this Christmas outfit, but I can take it. I have done so for years." And with that he tore open a letter and lifted out a check for $25 from Stuart J. Myers, the fellow with more corporations than Carter has pills. "Isn't it great," quoted Santa.

HULDA A. BENSON

Mrs. Hulda A. Benson, widow of John B. Benson, 605 West Main street, Sheffield, died at Warren General Hospital at 2:30 a. m. today. In ill health for the past year, she had been hospitalized for the past ten days.

She was born in Wimmerby, Smoland, Sweden, on February 22, 1877, coming to this country at an early age and spending practically her entire lifetime in Sheffield and vicinity. She was a member of Bethany Lutheran church and of its various societies, also of the Vasa Lodge.

Surviving are the following children: Judith, at home; Everett, of Sheffield; Mrs. Bert Simmons, Mrs. Walter Kiser, Warren; Ethel, of Cleveland, O.; Mrs. Ethel Cummings, Mrs. Joseph Martin, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Mrs. Kenneth Burch, West Chester.

Funeral services will be held from the family home at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, conducted by Rev. Hans Pearson, and followed by interment in Sheffield cemetery.

Records Were Broken

Air express handled in Warren last month amounted to about nine tons and the increase over the corresponding month in 1945 was 68.1 percent. Regular express numbered 11,302 shipments, an increase of 50.4 over 1945. Agent Gilmore had been anticipating a record breaking month in December, but John Lewis has changed his mind about that.

Two Trains Cancelled

While as yet no official word has been received here it is understood on good authority that Trains No. 970 and 971 will be taken off on the local lines of the Pennsylvania railroad. This taking off of these trains will leave but one train east and one west each day through Warren. No. 580 eastbound will run in the evening and No. 581 westbound will be operated in the morning. Embargo orders on express are also coming and they will cut down the force of workers here in the express office.

There are about 1,000 different kinds of rats.

Meet Fast Team In the Form Of Corry Quint Friday Night

With cheers for grid stars still echoing across the country, the scholastic cagers begin a new season for championship honors in their classes. Warren got off to a good start with their traditional first game rival and did pretty well in picking up a 40-28 on the other hand, it can't be really called a good start in the part of keeping up with last year's winning team, for the Dragons took the Youngvilliers 56-14 last season in the opener.

The Dragons will go into their game with Corry Friday night, after having a rest date, with the odds against them. Although the Dragons pulled a 34-26 edge over the Beavers last season, which is an uncomfortably close game, the Corryites have three returning lettermen, along with some fast ball-ins. It is predicted by Coach Joe Massa that the game will be a toss-up with the Corry team holding a slight edge because of the game being played on their home floor.

You see a slightly worried look on the pans of the Dragons after noticing what happened to Tidoute when they dared tangle with Corry in the opener. They were mauled completely and thoroughly as the Corryites walked away with a 53-4 victory, after the teams had been predicted as unknown quantities. Only speed and accuracy can do a thing like that, so that is what Coach Joe Massa is expecting.

School Tilts Of Importance For Tonight

By TOM SHIVER
Harrisburg, Dec. 5—(AP)—Allentown's state champions will try to make basketball history tomorrow night when they open the season with Hazle Township as the opposition. A victory will extend a three year winning streak to 46 straight, longest in the history of scholastic sport in Pennsylvania.

Coach J. Birney Crum will have two of his star players from last year, Bill Wanish, and Elmo "Wildie" Jackson, along with several reserve players who saw action in many of the play-off games that led to last year's second straight state title.

Several other potential title contenders swing into action this week-end in exhibition games that will serve to get the teams in shape for the pennant races opening early in January.

Warren, western finalist of last year, with one game already chalked up in the victory column, includes Corry for another test. Bradford goes to DuBois; Titusville tests Erie Strong Vincent; Cambridge Springs plays at Meadville; and Farrell goes to Oil City in Northwest Pennsylvania headliners.

Sharing honors with Allentown in the East will be Pottsville's opener with their traditional rivals from St. Clair; Whitehall at Easton; Swoyerville at Hazleton; and Coaldale at McAdoo, while in the far northeastern corner of the state Waverly plays Towanda in what may be a close struggle.

Other games on the list for tomorrow afternoon and evening include Saegertown at Bloomsfield; Clarion at Cranberry; North Shenango at Conneautville; Wesleyville at Edinboro; Springboro at Linesville; Russell at Ludlow; New Wilmington at Mercer; Northeast at Waterford; Sandy Lake at Rocky Grove; and Spartansburg at Randolph, all in the northwest.

Coal region games that will be watched with interest include Rock Glen at West Hazleton; Weatherly at Foster Township; and Lebanon Catholic at Tremont.

81-31 SCORE PILED UP BY PENN BOTTLES

Fans that followed the posters in Sheffield and went to the Sheffield High school gym to see the Penn Bottles, members of the Aggheny Mountain Conference League, play the Emporium, Sylvania in the opening tilt of the League preceded by a prelude with the Warren Times-Mirror playing O'Connors, really saw some good games.

In the preliminary the Times-Mirror dropped a tough one to O'Connors after leading 16-9 at half time. The final score was 40-33. Then the Penn Bottles took over the spotlight and walloped the Sylvania, 81-31, and that is no misprint.

There was nothing that could stop the Sheffield Bottle team last night, for they scored at will, and seemingly could not miss a shot. Pat Otto, youngest of the basketball brothers, was high scorer for the evening with 22 counters followed closely by Mike Steffan with 19. The rest of the scoring for the Sheffield team was: Mike Otto 16, Petrunay 16, Kunselman 16, Korchak 2. This reporter cannot remember ever seeing a score so top-heavy as that one.

INNOCENT

"Snippy" answers to customers? The "run-around"? The "let-'em-wait" attitude? Not at Personal Finance Company! My customers have declared me Innocent!

And they say I'm not guilty either of saying "No" to them when they ask for something. Proof: 4 out of 5 who ask for a loan here—get it!

"Personal" makes loans from $25 to $250 on signature alone, or on furniture or auto. Friends, relatives or employer not notified.

Usually I say "Yes" to loan requests in a hurry. But even when circumstances are unusual, I try to find a way to work out a deal. That's why "Personal" is so often able to make loans that others cannot.

Like most people, I don't believe in unnecessary borrowing... but when a loan is needed or to your advantage, I'll be glad to say "Yes." Any time you need extra cash—see me, won't you? I'm at Personal Finance Co., 216 Liberty street, second floor, over Lester Shoe Store. Phone 285.

Accident This Morning Has $58 Damage

A total of $58 damage was done when a 1941 DeSoto sedan, owned and driven by Arthur Graham, 311 Penna. ave., east, smashed into the 1941 Pontiac torpedo model club coupe of Leo Dyche, 955 East 54th street, Erie. The accident happened in front of the Geracinos Restaurant in the heart of the business section this morning at 10:20 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Dyche had driven up to a parking space in front of the restaurant and was in the act of backing into the space when Graham crashed into him. The front of the accident was taken by the bumper of the Dyche car, the only damage being a small dent in the left hand fender amounting to $8. The Graham auto, however, did not fare so well. The entire right side of the grille on the Graham DeSoto was wrecked and the fender and the left side of the grille damaged. This was estimated at $50 worth of damage.

Both drivers carried insurance on their autos.

New Workers Added To Post Office Crew

In preparation for the heavy mail in during the Christmas rush, Postmaster J. K. Bell said this morning that extra carriers, clerks, special delivery and messengers would be added to the local post office's regular crew.

Applications by 35 extra workers have been filed and the wanted number of men will be hand-picked. No civil service examination need be taken for the extra time jobs. Twenty-nine men will be chosen from the applications to fill in, servicemen getting the preference. Approximately twenty extra carriers will be taken on, one for each route, and seven clerks will be put on duty. Two extra trucks will be used along with two special delivery messengers.

Postmaster Bell also stated that all packages to be mailed must be packed, wrapped, and tied securely. This advice is repeated because of the number of poorly wrapped and tied packages that come in each day. Parcel post packages must bear the name and address of the sender, it was said.

It is much more urgent that packages be mailed early because of the number of trains taken off the lines. The biggest Christmas ever had been anticipated, but even these holdbacks should not affect the mails radically.

Neither was there certainty that UMW would post bond on the $3,500,000 fine levied by Goldsborough against the union. A stay of judgment pending the appeal select eligible substitute employees for the Warren office in the near future.

Strike Continues Despite Prospect of New Contempt Citation Against Leader

was determined to take jail, or what may come, rather than yield to a court order he contends is illegal and withdraw his termination of the UMW's contract with the government.

With this grim deadlock confronting the country, a group of railway unions issued a plea that Lewis and the government call the whole thing off and let a presidential commission settle all issues.

The association's proposal was regarded in some quarters as a possible peace reeler inspired by the "United Mine Workers' own AFL. Several of the rail unions are affiliated with the AFL.

There was no immediate comment from government officials or from the UMW.

Attorneys for the mine workers and for the government pressed plans to get an early supreme on the contempt of court conviction under which Federal District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough fined the UMW $3,500,000 and Lewis $10,000 personally.

Lewis and his attorneys would not talk with reporters about what they planned regarding the strike. But their denials nor hints there would be no wavering from the walkout which Goldsborough yesterday denounced as an "evil, demonic, monstrous thing." Rather, Lewis' defiant courtroom behavior when sentenced gave his miners the cue—stand your ground.

Neither was there certainty that UMW would post bond on the $3,500,000 fine levied by Goldsborough against the union. A stay of judgment pending the appeal select eligible substitute employees for the Warren office in the near future.

If it is not, the justice department after ten days could obtain a writ of execution which would send deputy U. S. marshals out to seize UMW property and assets until the sum is realized.

UMW attorneys said bond would be posted for Lewis' fine but indicated they would argue the question of bond for the union's fine. And if the strikes goes on, justice department officials said they could start a second contempt action. This could bring a jail sentence for Lewis instead of just a fine, and could bite another great piece out of UMW's $13,500,000 treasury.

A fine of $250,000 a day—as it figured out to the first 14 days of the strike—is suitable penalty for the "hunger and cold, and unemployment and destitution" which has been caused, Goldsborough ruled.

The court emphasized also that Lewis deserved jail. In his opinion, and only escaped it because the government so recommended.

A federal official who is in daily touch with government strategy, told reporters that evidence is being collected to support prosecution under the Smith-Connally act. He intimated that whether it is actually brought would depend on developments.

This law, also known as the War Labor Disputes Act, forbids strikes against the government and provides a ten year penalty of $5,000 and one year in jail for persons who "coerce, instigate, induce, conspire with or encourage" any strike in a government-held plant.

Goldsborough already has ruled that Lewis has instigated, induced and encouraged the soft coal strike.

BRIDGE TO PARADISE

Chapter 5

CORRINE was having a wonderful time getting things together for the Friday night party. She had saved all details for one big spree in the snops.

Corrine had not noticed the driving heat of the afternoon until she got into her blue roadster to go home. The heat of the motor was like a fire under her feet before she was halfway home, and she took off her shoes and prodded the accelerator with the big toe of her right, stockinged foot.

She was in no mood for argument, but she knew she would have one if her mother caught her with her shoes in one hand and her hat in the other.

Amita Pratt was a small prim woman in her early forties. Her eyes were clear and round and blue, deep-set as Corrine's. Her face was as round as a baby's and as smooth, except for her chin which was sharply pointed.

Amita could reprove with a look from her cold blue eyes, but with Corrine, there were always words. "It's common, Corrine, to come trapping in in your stocking feet."

"It's common to traipse anywhere, remember?" Corrine returned. "You do it when you're dead tired and half-suffocated."

Amita Pratt sighed. "You're your father's daughter. I've just about given up hope." She sighed again, deeper, and her eyes misted over.

"Hope for what?" Corrine asked.

"Of making you a lady."

"Oh, that," Corrine laughed. "I've dreamed of the time when you'd go abroad with Ross and be introduced to royalty." Amita's sigh was deeper and yet the mist in her eyes faded into two tears at the outer corners.

Corrine lolled back in the chair and tossed her shoes aside. She closed her eyes for a minute, then suddenly she roused to ask:

"Mother, who started this business of me being engaged to Ross? He never has even proposed to me."

"I don't know that anybody started it. Ross has always been your escort, even before you went to college. It has just been taken for granted. He's the only eligible young man in Headleyville fit for you."

"Fit?" Corrine repeated the word to herself. It was a funny word. One meaning of it was what she was about to have. "I don't even like Ross," she said finally. "He's soft and pompous. He pukes up with importance."

Her mother's chin jutted and the point of it was as sharp as her voice. "What have you been up to, Corrine? Have you fallen in love with somebody else?"

"Yes, I have," she answered honestly.

There was a brief silence during which Amita Pratt sniffed a couple of times and wiped her eyes, but Corrine was not looking. "You'd better go take a cold shower, dear. The heat is oppressive."

"Yes, I expect I'd better," Corrine sprang to the chair and picked up her shoes.

It was a relief to reach her own room. She undressed and took a cooling shower, lay down on the luxurious bed with only a sheer nightgown between her body and the cornaze puffing in through the windows, which were as wide as doors and reached almost to the high ceiling.

TWILIGHT was softening the flower garden with its mellow gold and dust-rose lights when Corrine awoke from a short, dreamless nap.

She dressed hurriedly in a white silk suit consisting of skirt, blouse with a bright red collar, and a short white jacket. She stepped back from the big round mirror to get the full effect, then dashed downstairs.

Her mother was nowhere in sight, but she found Ross and her father on the stone porch which led out, by the way of polished stone steps, to the terrace and the pool.

Ross came to his feet the moment she spoke. "Hello, Corrine."

"Please don't let me interrupt,"

Corrine begged. She sat on the arm of her father's chair, one arm encircling his neck.

Mr. Pratt always spoke openly before Corrine in spite of his wife's protests, so he said, "Ross and I were discussing his conference with Crockett. Crockett refused to sell the land. We've offered five times what it's worth."

"Maybe that's not enough for what it's worth to him," Corrine suggested.

"It's worth nothing to him! He can't even pay his taxes!" Corrine snuggled against him and said, "You know, I believe David Graham could influence him. Why don't you talk with him and see if he can't persuade Old Man Crockett to sell?"

"Hi-m-m, that young shirthead!" Corrine said. "That might be a good idea. Ross put in."

"It's just a suggestion," Corrine said sweetly and snuggled closer to him.

She was startled when her father said suddenly, "I think a tactful thing would be to invite young Graham to the party Friday night."

"Why, yes," she faltered. Then she told them of the invitation. Nellie had sent him, and could not restrain a chuckle at her father's. "Well, I'll be a confounded fool in a flash!"

"He flatly refused to come," she went on. "He might reconsider if you sent an invitation and signed your name to it. He couldn't for a moment, then added, 'But I doubt if any urging would get him here.'"

Mr. Pratt snorted and said, "I wouldn't think of doing such a thing."

"You'd better," Ross interposed. "He's our only means of reaching Crockett. Madelyn hasn't an influence with him."

Corrine hurried into the library and came back with an invitation. "You're going to regret this, your name also is scribbled on the name across one corner of the square."

Trap Thieves Worse Than Season Jump

The following from the State Game Commission received a trifle late for the opening of trapping season will nevertheless settle many arguments that have been indulged in:

"In an announcement today Game Officials said that traps for muskrats can be set beginning at 7:00 a. m. on Sunday, December 1. Although it is illegal to take game birds and animals on Sunday, the trapping of muskrats is lawful on that day as the muskrat is a fur-bearing animal and not a game animal. However, it is unlawful to place, stake out or set traps before 7:00 a. m., Sunday morning, December 1, and any violations of this nature will be prosecuted if the culprits are caught.

"Game officials said 10,000 posters have been distributed throughout the Commonwealth designed to curb the dastardly practice of trap disturbance and even stealing. The trap thief, in the Commission's opinion, is worse than the fellow who shoots game before the season opens, and every effort will be made to help the honest trappers catch these vandals."

McKenney On Bridge

SIX N. T. IS MADE WITH VIENNA COUP

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Written for NEA Service

It is nice to see a master play a good hand. Jeff Glick, of Miami, a member of the committee for the national championships tournament to be held Dec. 8 to 15 at Hollywood, Fla., played today's hand at the recent Florida State tournament. It has one of the rare plays in bridge, the Vienna coup. In fact, you might call it a double Vienna.

Glick		♠ A K 10 4		♥ 9 7		♦ Q 10 7 3		♣ K 6
♠ 7 2		♥ J 6 3		♦ 6 5 4		♣ Q J 7 3		2
♠ 6 5 4		♥ J 6 3		♦ 6 5 4		♣ Q J 7 3		2
♠ 6 5 4		♥ J 6 3		♦ 6 5 4		♣ Q J 7 3		2
♠ 6 5 4		♥ J 6 3		♦ 6 5 4		♣ Q J 7 3		2
♠ 6 5 4		♥ J 6 3		♦ 6 5 4		♣ Q J 7 3		2
♠ 6 5 4		♥ J 6 3		♦ 6 5 4		♣ Q J 7 3		2
♠ 6 5 4		♥ J 6 3		♦ 6 5 4		♣ Q J 7 3		2
♠ 6 5 4		♥ J 6 3		♦ 6 5 4		♣ Q J 7 3		2
♠ 6 5 4		♥ J 6 3		♦ 6 5 4		♣ Q J 7 3		2

Glick won the opening lead in his own hand (North) with the king of clubs, and started to run off the seven heart tricks. East's first discard was the eight of diamonds and his second the eight of spades.

Glick now knew that neither the diamond nor the spade finesse would work.

On the seven hearts Glick followed with two hearts, and discarded the ten and four of spades and the ten, seven and three of diamonds. Then he cashed the ace and king of spades—and that is the Vienna coup play, deliberately setting up a trick for the opponent.

At this point East held the queen of spades, and the king-jack of diamonds.

Glick now led the six of clubs, and East was helpless. If he threw away the queen of spades, dummy's jack would be good. He discarded the jack of diamonds, and Glick led the diamond from dummy, went up with the ace, and the queen of diamonds was his thirteenth trick.

The moral of this hand, if there is one, is: Don't be too anxious to signal that you hold the missing high card.
